

16th Summer Camp Commenced at GGIS

The 16th Summer Camp of Gyan Ganga International School was inaugurated in the most dignified and magnificent manner on 01st May, 2016 Sunday. Enormous number of students from Jabalpur City and from nearby places participated in the camp. The main objective of conducting this camp is to impart training of various activities and teach the students how to utilize their leisure time by learning some beneficial things which can develop different skills in them and help them in grooming their personality.

During these twenty days in the camp students will undergo different training schedules for various activities such as Horse Riding, Swimming, Dance, Art & Craft, Shooting, English Speaking, Computer, Personality Development, Calligraphy, different Sports (Indoor & Outdoor), Skating and above all Yoga the most demanding activity of the time. All these activities will be imparted to the students under the guidance of expert trainers and teachers. To make this camp more interesting and fruitful and result oriented different competitions will be conducted to drag out the hidden talents and potentials of the participants.

During the indoor activities such as Spoken English, Art & Craft classes students will develop their different skill which will in total add up to their personality with the use of waste material and unused items at home these students will be taught to make some useful and decorative items. Best accommodation facilities are available in the institution for the boarding campers with air cooled dormitories. Bus facilities are also available for day-boarding campers. There will be number of evening activities such as quiz, debate, dance, music and other knowledgeable competitions which will be organized to enhance the knowledge of these campers in different fields.

This camp is being organized under the great guidance of school Principal Dr. Rajesh Kumar Chandel. Speaking on the inauguration of the camp he expressed his views on the importance of such camps during summers' and also welcomed the participants from different areas. He also highlighted on the importance of different activities which will be the integral part of this camp and would definitely benefit the campers in grooming and developing their personality as a whole.

Parents and guardians of all the campers who were present for the occasion appreciated the Management and the Principal for organizing such camps which would help their wards in learning and using their summer vacations time fruitfully by learning something and developing their skills and personality on the whole.
