

TWO DAYS BOOK FAIR AT GGIS

Reading is considered to be the best habit and books are considered to be the best friend of any person in life. They not only provide knowledge but also widen our vision and build up our vocabulary which is very much needed in today's competitive world. Keeping this very thought in view Gyan Ganga International School organized two days book fair in collaboration with Scholastic India Private Limited in the school campus. The book fair was inaugurated by the executive director of GGIS Dr. Nitin Jain and school Principal Dr. Rajesh Kumar Chandel. Speaking on the occasion school Principal Dr. Rajesh Kumar Chandel highlighted the main aim of organizing this book fair. He informed the students that now a day's CBSE has made it compulsory for the students at all levels to read specific books in order to develop reading habits among the students which is deteriorating day by day because of developing technology. He also made the students aware about the benefits and value of reading books and urged them to develop the habit of reading which would definitely help them in facing competitions and then later in their careers.

In the same sequence executive director Dr. Nitin Jain said that a book fair acts as a window that provides and opens the path towards various fields and from where one can gather the utmost knowledge and wisdom. He appreciated the efforts of school principal and thanked the members of Scholastic India Private Limited with whose collaboration this incredible book fair was organized. He also motivated the youth to develop the habit of reading and get some good books from the huge collection that was displayed.

Book fair convener and school Librarian Ajay Kumar Manjhi organized the fair successfully and helped the students in searching the books of their interest. Everyone appreciated the fair and took the best out of it.
