

Conservation Week Celebrated at GGIS

On the 14th February 2017, Gyan Ganga International School organized prize distribution ceremony in collaboration with Hindustan Petroleum Private Limited for honoring the participants and the winners who participated in the various competitions which was conducted in the school premises during the conservation week celebration.

This conservation week was organized in the school premises in accordance to spread awareness among the mass through these youngsters that what is the importance of fuel conservation and how to use this irreversible energy in more economy way. Students from classes 7th to 10th participated in this conservation week celebration by participating in various competitions such as drawing, essay writing and quiz.

The participants displayed their knowledge and sense of curiosity by participating actively and securing good positions. Dignitaries who graced this prize distribution ceremony were Regional Manager of Hindustan Group, Central Manager of Hindustan Petroleum, School Principal and other officials. This event was named as 'SAKSHAM' in which a strong message was conveyed through these officials to make the upcoming generation aware about this irreversible energy resource how to conserve them for their future prospects.

All the winners were awarded with prize first, second & third with dignities and were applauded for initiatives and participation students were motivated through appreciations and prizes such as school bags, stationary items, pencil boxes etc. At the end refreshment was distributed to all the participants and students.